Prospective investors are referred to the base prospectus relating to the Programme dated 27 March 2025 (the “Base Prospectus”). The Base Prospectus is available at https://www.spirea.com/media/1072/spire_2025_base_prospectus.pdf.

Risk factors

THESE NOTES ARE NOT PRINCIPAL PROTECTED. THERE IS A RISK THAT YOU COULD LOSE ALL OF YOUR INVESTMENT. The Notes are a structured product which involves derivatives. Do not invest in it unless you fully understand and are willing to assume the risks associated with it. If you are in any doubt about the risks involved in the product, you should seek appropriate professional advice. Please read carefully to following risk factors.

The Notes: The Notes are complex instruments that involve substantial risks and are suitable only for sophisticated investors that:

- (i) have sufficient knowledge and experience to make a meaningful evaluation of the Notes, the merits and risks of investing in the Notes (including, without limitation, the tax, accounting, credit, legal, regulatory and financial implications for them of such an investment) and the information contained or incorporated by reference in the Base Prospectus or any applicable supplement;
- (ii) have considered the suitability of the Notes in light of their own circumstances and financial condition;
- (iii) have access to, and knowledge of, appropriate analytical tools to evaluate, in the context of their particular financial situation, an investment in the Notes and the impact the Notes will have on their overall investment portfolio;
- (iv) understand thoroughly the terms of the Notes and are familiar with the behaviour of any relevant indices and financial markets; and
- (v) are able to evaluate (either alone or with the help of a financial adviser) possible scenarios for economic, interest rate and other factors that may affect their investment and their ability to bear the applicable risks.

Owing to the structured nature of the Notes, their price may be more volatile than that of unstructured securities.

Investors: Each prospective investor in Notes should have sufficient financial resources and liquidity to bear all of the risks of an investment in the relevant Notes, including where principal and interest may reduce as a result of the occurrence of different events whether related to the creditworthiness of any entity or otherwise or changes in particular rates, prices, values or indices, or where the currency for principal or interest payments is different from the prospective investor's currency.

Investment activities of certain investors are subject to investment laws and regulations, or review or regulation by certain authorities. Each prospective investor should therefore consult its professional advisers to determine whether and to what extent (i) the Notes are legal investments for it and/or (ii) other restrictions apply to its purchase of any Notes. Financial institutions should consult their professional advisers or the appropriate regulators to determine the appropriate treatment of Notes under any applicable risk-based capital or similar rules.

Each prospective investor should consult its own tax advisers in order to understand fully the tax implications specific to an investment in the Notes.

If a transaction arises as a result of this indicative term sheet you agree, represent and warrant to GS as of the Issue Date, that (a) you have read, understood and agree with (and have taken all professional advice you deem appropriate in connection with) the legal documentation in connection with the Notes (including any Issue Deed, the Programme Deed, and any other Transaction Agreements), (b) you acknowledge and understand that the indicative terms and conditions set out in this term sheet is subject in its entirety to such legal documentation, and that the disclaimers and risk disclosure set out herein will be supplemented by those in the legal documentation, and (c) that you will comply with any Selling Restrictions set out in the Notes, and will not (among other things) offer, sell or deliver the Notes in any jurisdiction except under circumstances that will result in compliance with the applicable laws thereof, and that you will take at your own expense whatever action is required to permit your purchase and resale of the Notes. The Selling Restrictions below apply.

No fiduciary role: None of the Issuer, the Dealer or any of the other Transaction Parties or any of their respective affiliates is acting as an investment adviser or as an adviser in any other capacity, and none of them (other than the Trustee to the extent set out in the Trust Deed) assumes any fiduciary obligation to any purchaser of Notes or any other party, including the Issuer.

None of the Issuer, the Dealer or any of the other Transaction Parties assumes any responsibility for (i) conducting or failing to conduct any investigation into the business, financial condition, prospects, creditworthiness, status and/or affairs of any issuer or obligor of any Collateral or the terms thereof or of any Swap Counterparty or Swap Guarantor or the terms of the relevant Swap Agreement or (ii) monitoring any such issuer or obligor of any Collateral, any Swap Counterparty or any Swap Guarantor during the term of the Notes.

Investors may not rely on the views of the Issuer, the Dealer or any of the other Transaction Parties for any information in relation to any person.

No reliance: A prospective purchaser may not rely on the Issuer, the Dealer or any of the other Transaction Parties or any of their respective affiliates in connection with its determination as to the legality of its acquisition of the Notes or as to any of the other matters referred to above.

Issuer Risk: The Issuer is a special purpose vehicle and there is no day to day management of the business of the Issuer. The Issuer is not required to be licensed, registered or authorised in its jurisdiction of incorporation will operate without regulatory supervision in any jurisdiction, subject to any selling restrictions. Regulatory authorities in jurisdictions other than the Issuer's jurisdiction of incorporation may take a contrary view regarding the applicability of any such laws to the Issuer which may have an adverse impact on the Issuer or Noteholders.

Limited Recourse: The Notes are limited recourse obligations and are payable solely out of the Secured Property. The net proceeds of realisation of the Secured Property may be insufficient to cover amounts that would otherwise be due under the Notes.

Non-petition: Noteholders may not take any step towards the winding-up, examination or administration of the Issuer. The Trustee may only prove in a liquidation of the Issuer initiated by another party.

Priority of Claims: The Noteholders' right to be paid amounts due under the Notes will be subordinated to prior ranking claims in the manner specified in the Base Prospectus or the Drawdown Deed.

No gross-up: Noteholders will not receive grossed-up amounts to compensate for any withholding tax. Imposition of such a tax may constitute a Mandatory Redemption Event.

Mandatory Redemption: Upon the occurrence of an a Firm Replacement Quotation or an Event of Default the Issuer may redeem all Notes before their scheduled maturity date at their Early Redemption Amount on the Early Redemption Date. Such Early Redemption Amount may be lower than the redemption amount due at maturity.

Relevant Information: GS may have access to information relating to the product described within (the Product), any Underlyers and any derivative instruments referencing it (together Relevant Instruments). GS will not be obliged to disclose any such Relevant Information to you.

GS' Interests: GS may be an active participant on both sides of the market for the Relevant Instruments at any time. GS's hedging and trading activities with respect to the Product may affect the value of other Relevant Instruments and vice versa. GS may be calculation agent or sponsor of Underlyers and as such may make determinations affecting the value of the Product.

No correlation with Underlyers: The value of the Product will not necessarily correlate with the value of any instruments or indices underlying it including any repackaged assets and/or assets posted as security for the Notes (Underlyers).

No liquidity: The Product may have no liquidity. An investor must be prepared to hold it until maturity. A secondary market is unlikely to develop. GS may, but is not obliged to, make a market. If it does, it may cease at any time without notice.

Confidentiality and disclosure of Information: This termsheet is confidential to GS and any recipient should treat it as such. However, any information regarding the Product that may be relevant to the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Product (excluding the identities of the parties) or which is necessary to support any U.S. federal income tax benefits may be disclosed to the relevant authorities without contractual limitation of any kind.

Notional/principal Increase: The executed size of the Product may be increased at any time.

Valuation: All other things being equal, the value of the Product on the settlement date may be significantly less than the execution price on the trade date. If you unwind your investment early, you may receive less than the stated redemption amount which you may have received had you held the Product to maturity.

Price Discrepancy: Any price quoted for the Product by GS may differ significantly from (i) the product's value determined by reference to GS pricing models and (ii) any price quoted by a third party. GS is under no obligation to provide a price or to match any other prices quoted by any third parties.

Exposure to price risk of the Original Collateral and credit risk of the Original Collateral Issuer: Investors in the Notes are exposed to the price risk of the Original Collateral if the Notes are redeemed early (except in the case of an Issuer Call event). If the Notes are redeemed early for any reason the Original Collateral will be sold and the proceeds of sale will be used to calculate the Early Redemption Amount. If the Original Collateral are sold at a price lower than their principal amount for any reason, it is likely that Noteholders will receive less than the outstanding principal amount of their Notes. The Original Collateral may comprise a large portion of the total amount of such assets outstanding in the market and as such they may be subject to very limited liquidity. Limited liquidity in relation to the Original Collateral may result in a lower market or sale value. Investors in the Notes are also exposed to the credit risk of the issuer of the Original Collateral from time to time because a reduction in the creditworthiness of the issuer of the Original Collateral is likely to result in a lower market or sale value of the Original Collateral and a default on the Original Collateral by the issuer thereof may result in the early redemption of the Notes unless steps are taken to substitute the Original Collateral pursuant to the terms of the Notes.

Exposure to Credit Risk of Goldman Sachs Group: Noteholders are exposed to the credit risk of Goldman Sachs International and the Goldman Sachs Group. The ability of the Issuer to meet its obligations under the Notes will depend on the receipt by it of payments of interest and principal under the Repack Assets, as well as payments owed to the Issuer by the Swap Counterparty. Consequently, the Noteholders are exposed not only to the price risk of the Original Collateral, but also to the ability of the Swap Counterparty to perform its obligations to make payments to the Issuer under the Swap. Should the Swap Counterparty become insolvent, the Issuer would rank as an unsecured creditor in relation to amounts due from the Swap Counterparty. Any mandatory redemption event resulting from any default of the Swap Counterparty could result in the Noteholder receiving less than if no default had occurred and accordingly a Noteholder may suffer losses in connection with a default of the Swap Counterparty. The claims of the Swap Counterparty will rank senior to the claims of Noteholders in all circumstances.

Early Redemption risk: The Issuer will redeem the Notes in whole prior to the Scheduled Maturity Date upon the occurrence of a Early Redemption Event, Call Option or Put Option. The Early Redemption Amount may be less than the Final Redemption Amount. This may limit the market value of the Notes as the redemption amount on exercise of the Issuer Call Option shall be equal to the denomination multiplied by the Accreted Principal Amount. Following an Issuer Call reinvestment in a similar product may result in a lower yield.

Ability to suffer loss: This is a complex product with various price and credit risks, and involves the use of derivatives. The value of this product may be volatile. There is no principal protection or guarantee of return. A Noteholder may suffer a loss on all or part of their investment, and any prospective Noteholder must be financially able to suffer a total loss on their investment.

Independent review and advice: Each prospective purchaser of the Notes must determine, based on its own independent review (including as to the financial condition and affairs and its own appraisal of the creditworthiness) of the Issuer, the Swap Counterparty, the Swap Guarantor and the Original Collateral Issuer and after obtaining such professional advice (including, without limitation, tax, accounting, credit, legal and regulatory advice) as it deems appropriate under the circumstances, whether an investment in the Notes is appropriate in its particular circumstances.

In so doing, and without restricting the generality of the preceding paragraph, such prospective purchaser must determine that its acquisition and holding of the Notes (i) is fully consistent with its financial needs, objectives and condition, (ii) complies and is fully consistent with all investment policies, guidelines and restrictions applicable to it and (iii) is a fit, proper and suitable investment for it, notwithstanding the clear and substantial risks inherent in investing in or holding the Notes. None of the Issuer, the Trustee, the Dealer or any of their respective affiliates is acting as an investment adviser, or assumes any fiduciary obligation, to any purchaser of Notes.

This term sheet and the corresponding Base Prospectus are not intended to provide the basis of any credit or other evaluation nor should be considered as a recommendation or constituting an invitation or offer that any recipient of the Prospectus should purchase any Notes.

Hedging Costs: Upon Early Termination of the Swap, any break costs that may be incurred by the Swap Counterparty in relation to the early termination of any transaction entered into by the Swap Counterparty to hedge, in whole or in part, its position under the Swap, will be taken into account by the Calculation Agent for the determination of the Swap Termination Payment. This may result in a reduction in the amount receivable by Noteholders.

FATCA Risk: The future application of FATCA to the Issuer and the holders of Notes is uncertain, and it is not clear at this time what actions, if any, will be required to minimize any adverse impact of FATCA on the Issuer and the holders of Notes. The Issuer has not decided whether it will enter into an IRS Agreement. If the Issuer does not enter into the IRS Agreement or fails to comply with the IRS Agreement, and is therefore subject to the 30 per cent. withholding tax, the Issuer may have less cash to make interest and principal payments on the Notes. In addition, the imposition of withholding tax on the Issuer will generally constitute a Mandatory Redemption Event.

No Collective Investment Schemes Units: The Securities are not supervised by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority (FINMA) and investors do not benefit from the specific investor protection provided under the Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes (CISA). Investors should be aware, that they are exposed to the credit risk of the Issuer.

Valuation of the Securities: Assuming no change in market conditions or other factors, the value of the Securities on the settlement date (as determined by reference to pricing models used by GS) may be significantly less than the execution price on the trade date. If you unwind your investment early, you may receive less than the stated redemption amount.

No Exchange Guarantee nor contract ownership: The Securities are not guaranteed by an Exchange nor do they result in the ownership of any Reference Index securities or futures contracts.

The Swap Counterparty and any of the other entities mentioned above may from time to time be an active participant on both sides of the market and have long or short positions in, or buy and sell, securities, commodities, futures, options or other derivatives identical or related to those mentioned in the Base Prospectus, the Programme Deed or this Term Sheet. The Swap Counterparty and any of the other entities mentioned above may have potential conflicts of interest due to present or future relationships between the Swap Counterparty and those other entities.

Calculation Agent: As Calculation Agent for your Notes, Goldman Sachs International will have discretion in making various determinations that could materially affect your Notes under certain circumstances, including the amount payable at redemption, the amount payable on any early redemption for tax reasons and on any acceleration. The exercise of this discretion by Goldman Sachs International could adversely affect the value of your Notes and may present Goldman Sachs and Goldman Sachs International with a conflict of interest.

Non-Public Information: GS may, by virtue of its status as a director, underwriter, advisor or otherwise, possess or have access to non publicly available information relating to underlyers or the issuer(s) thereof, as applicable. GS shall be under no obligation to disclose such status or any public or non public information.

Security taken over JGBs posted by the Swap Counterparty under the Credit Support Annex may be unenforceable: Pursuant to the terms of the CSA, the Swap Counterparty is entitled to post as Eligible Credit Support negotiable debt obligations issued by the Japanese Government which are held in the Bank of Japan book-entry system (furikae-kokusai) ("JGBs"). Once posted, JGBs will form part of the assets of the Issuer and the Trustee will take an English law security over such JGBs by means of an assignment by the Issuer in favour of the Trustee of the Issuer's rights against the Custodian under the Custody Agreement. Any such English law security interest over JGBs may not be recognised under Japanese law and Noteholders should be aware that any such JGBs may consequently not form part of the secured property for the Notes.

Selling restrictions: The Notes referred to in this indicative terms sheet may not:

If you are distributing Goldman Sachs "retail investment products" (as such term is defined in the handbook of the Financial Conduct Authority and the Prudential Regulation Authority) into the United Kingdom and you are entitled to receive any commission or fee from Goldman Sachs, you represent and warrant to Goldman Sachs that you will not transfer any part of that commission or fee to any third party who may advise retail investors to purchase a Goldman Sachs retail investment product.

If you are authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority or if you are authorized by the Prudential Regulation Authority and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority and the Prudential Regulation Authority to provide investment advice to retail investors in the United Kingdom and you are providing advice to retail investors in respect a Goldman Sachs retail investment product, you undertake not to request any commission or fee from Goldman Sachs and to otherwise reject any such payment offered to you. Under no circumstances shall Goldman Sachs facilitate the payment of an adviser charge on behalf of retail clients in the United Kingdom.
